CLINICAL INNOVATION SUMMIT 2026

NOVEMBER 9 - 11 @ EIGHTVEDS PAKHUS

SPONSOR BROCHURE

Join Us in Shaping the Future of Resilient Health Care

By sponsoring CIS 2026, you place your organization at the center of the most strategically important frontier in global health innovation — where remote care, resilience and resource limited care enabling technologies, and transatlantic collaboration converge.

Clinical Innovation Summit (CIS) is a key platform for convening hospital innovation stakeholders from North America.

The Clinical Innovation Summit is a high-level platform where healthcare leaders, policymakers, and industry partners come together to shape the future of healthcare innovation.

Now on its fourth year, the Summit is a well-established platform convening senior decision-makers from Denmark and North America to address shared challenges and explore promising solutions.

This year, remote care and resilient health are the core topics; exploring how advanced remote-care models can strengthen healthcare delivery across a multitude of situations and build societal resilience.

With increasing geopolitical uncertainty and rising demands on health systems worldwide, innovations originally developed for extreme environments are becoming more and more essential to civilian healthcare.

CIS is designed as a focused, two-day conference for meaningful dialogue, insight-sharing, and partnership building between hospitals, government, and industry. CIS offers corporate sponsors a unique opportunity to gain visibility, access decision-makers, and engage in conversations that influence future healthcare systems.

We invite sponsors to join us in advancing a long-term, transatlantic effort to translate innovation into impact and to position themselves at the center of the evolving healthcare landscape.

Sincerely,

What Sponsor Support Enables

Sponsor Support brings together representatives from North American healthcare ecosystems specialized in remote care and resource limited medicine, enabling transatlantic exchange.

Remote Care: A Priority in Today's Geopolitical Landscape

Across the EU, U.S., and Asia, resource limited care innovation has become a national priority due to shifting security dynamics, fragile supply chains, and the need for robust civilian preparedness. Technologies developed for mission-critical settings, be it satellite communications, remote monitoring, AI-supported triage, ruggedized diagnostics, now define competitive advantage in health innovation.

By sponsoring CIS, organisations position themselves at the intersection of healthcare, national resilience, space, and advanced technology, where governments and global markets are rapidly increasing investment.

Access to Leaders Shaping the Future of Remote Care

CIS hosts executives and clinicians from world-leading hospitals systems across North America, many of whom lead research in remote monitoring, virtual care, and digitally supported pre-hospital systems.

This offers unparalleled opportunities to connect with decision-makers defining the next generation of distributed care from the home to the field and to deep space exploration.

Visibility in a Trusted, Curated Thought-Leadership Forum

CIS is a gathering designed for high-level strategic dialogue, not a commercial expo.

Professional photography, films, and post-event materials extend the event's reach to ministries, research institutions, and industry partners, amplifying sponsor visibility.

Alignment with Denmark's National Innovation Agenda

CIS supports Denmark's goals around resource limited care innovation, remote care, and resilient health systems including the national life science, security, and technological readiness strategies.

Curated spaces allow sponsors to meet the leaders defining future procurement, regulatory pathways, and innovation priorities.

PRELIMINARY PROGRAMME

MONDAY NOV. 9

CONFERENCE DAY 1: HEALTHCARE AT THE EDGE: AUSTERE MEDICINE

- Extreme environments as innovation drivers: space, combat, Arctic & offshore
